

Virginia Tech, with the support of Rolls-Royce, has developed a non intrusive measurement technique to accurately determine engine thrust.

Depicted: Developmental test rig in the lab environment and refined setup behind JT15D engine.